Crisp, Notes, XII (where he is wrongly assigned to Christ's College); The Guardian, Mar. 28, 1883.)

BURROUGHES or BURROUGHS, THOMAS. Adm. pens. at CHRIST'S, Feb. 11, 1826. [Perhaps s. of Thomas Cooke (next), R. of Landbeach, Cambs.] Matric. Michs. 1826; Scholar, 1826; B.A. 1830; M.A. 1833. The identity of this man is difficult to establish. According to Peile, II. 422, his name was removed as 'dead,' in Mar. 1859. Peile, however, wrongly suggests identity with Thomas, C. of Rickinghall, and son of Thomas Cooke (1773), R. of Landbeach, thus confusing him with Thomas, of Corpus Christi (1817). It appears moreover that the Rev. Thomas Cooke (1773) had a younger son named Thomas Cooke, who died Oct. 7, 1867, at Botesdale, Suffolk; will (Bury St Edmunds) Dec. 30, 1867; and he may be identical with the Christ's man. F. A. Crisp, however, assigns Thomas D'Eye, son of James Burkin (1777), to Christ's; he died July 10, 1875, aged 75 at Ipswich. (Crisp, Notes, XII.) Lack of further evidence makes certainty of identification impossible. In Burke, Thomas Cooke Burroughes, junr., is described as 'of Gazeley, Suffolk.' (Burke, L.G., 1862 and 1871.)

CARRINGTON, CODRINGTON. Adm. Fell.-Com. (age 18) at ST JOHN'S, Feb. 15, 1768. S. of Paul, Counsellor, deceased, of Barbados [and Mary Blower]. B. Oct. 5, 1749, at St Michael's, Bridgetown, Barbados. School, Eton. His career is not easy to trace; he apparently inherited the estates of an uncle, Codrington Carrington, and returned to Barbados. Codrington Carrington, Esq., of Barbados [the member of the College] married Martha, dau. of the Rev. Edmund Morris, R. of Nutshalling, Hants., Nov. 25, 1768 [their son was presumably Codrington Edmund Carrington, afterwards Chief Justice of Ceylon, for whom see D.N.B.]. But it is not quite certain that the father of the Chief Justice was the member of St John's; Codrington Edmund Carrington's father at the time of his son's admission at the Middle Temple, Nov. 2, 1787, was described as the Rev. Codrington Carrington, of Llangattock, Co. Monmouth, but his ordinations have not been traced. The Rev. Codrington Carrington, of Llangattock, is probably identical with the Codrington Carrington, owner of The Chapel, Barbados, whose daughter, Catherine, married Major Charles Frederick Napier, R.A. This supposition seems borne out by the fact that Henry Carrington (of Caius), Dean of Bocking, is described in his obituary notices as cousin of Lord Napier, of Magdala. (St John's Coll. Adm., IV; Eton Coll. Reg.)

Keenly interested in mechanical science; regarded as the inventor of the internal combustion engine. Made known his theory in a paper read before the Cambridge Philosophical Society, Nov. 27, 1820, entitled, 'On the Application of Hydrogen Gas to produce a moving power in machinery, with a description of an engine which is moved by the pressure of the Atmosphere upon a Vacuum caused by explosions of Hydrogen Gas and Atmospheric Air' (Transactions, I. 218). Another interesting article from his pen appeared in the Transactions, Dec. 9, 1822, 'on an Apparatus for grinding telescopes, mirrors and object lenses.' Said to have erected a machine in one of the trees of his garden, designed to pull out his parishioners' teeth. Addressed a solemn Appeal to the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese of Ely on 'the Disorder and Profaneness exhibited at the Parish Church of St Michael's on the occasion of the Confirmation held there, June 20, 1833'—a spirited protest giving a lurid picture of the Church life of his day.
